

Name of Department: DEPARTMENT OF BIOCHEMISTRY

Program: Two Days National Conference on “Biochemistry- Emerging Science and Technology” themed “Current Developments in Phytochemical Research and its Transdisciplinary Applications”

Date: 14.03.2024 -15.03.2024

Time: 09:30 am onwards

Convener: Dr Wethroe Kapfo, Assistant Professor and Head, Department of Biochemistry

Convener: Prof. Vibha Chaudhari, Professor, IBAB, Bengaluru

Co-Convener: Dr. Chaitanya Pandit, Assistant Professor, Department of Biochemistry

Chief Guest and Inaugurator: Prof. Thippeswamy T, RTD Joint Director, CSRTI, Mysuru

Guest of Honor and Keynote Speaker: Dr. RP Singh, Senior Principal Scientist, Department of Biochemistry, CFTRI, Mysuru

Venue: College Auditorium

Total Beneficiaries: 141 participants including students, research scholars and faculties.

Objectives:

1. Strengthen the MOU between MMK and SDM MMV and IBAB, Bengaluru through this National Conference via collaboration.
2. Highlight the diverse application of phytochemical research in therapy, Ayurveda, bioinformatics, etc.
3. Provide a platform for young and experienced researchers to showcase their research findings through oral and poster presentation
4. Create a forum of discussion of knowledge exchange and debate through panel discussion.
5. Provide an opportunity to students and scholars to create and diversify their network.
6. Expose the students and researchers to various biotechnology companies through their stalls arranged in the campus.

Introduction: Phytochemistry, since the last century, has taken a pivotal turn towards diverse applications for the betterment of society. Various techniques and analytical tools have developed to improve understanding the phytochemicals and its potential applications. From therapy to nanotechnology to traditional medicine, recent years have shown its versatility as human interventions to societal problems. The concept of phytochemicals was already imbibed through ancient literature and folkloric practices. The scientific evidence however was lacking. As these plant products are valued, the National Conference on “Biochemistry-Emerging Science and Technology” was themed on “Current Developments in Phytochemical Research and its transdisciplinary applications?”. Being exposed to phytochemical research during their doctoral studies and experiencing the fascinating results of the experiments, the faculties of Department of Biochemistry deliberated the use of the platform to connect the students and researchers to different experts contributing to the field of biochemistry. As a way to strengthen the association with IBAB, the faculties, by the permission of the Management of SDMES and Principal, approached Dr. Bibha Choudhari, Profesor, IBAB, Bengaluru who agreed to join hands with the team and provide her valuable experience towards the preparation of the program.

Proceedings of the Conference

14.03.2024

Inaugural Function and Keynote address: Following the invocation, Dr. Wethroe Kapfo welcomed the dignitaries and participants. Prof. Thippeswamy T, RTD Joint Director, CSRTI, Mysuru inaugurated the event in the presence of Prof. Sainath Malligemadu, Principal; Dr. RP Singh, Guest of Honor; Prof. Bibha Choudhari, Coordinator; Prof. N Bharathi, Vice Principal, Smt. KS Sukrutha, IQAC Coordinator, Dr. Wethroe Kapfo, Convenor and Dr. Chaitanya Pandit, Co-convenor. In his inaugural speech he encouraged the students to attend all the technical sessions and ask questions. He emphasized the importance of phytochemicals in health and disease. Dr. R.P Singh, Guest of Honor and keynote speaker stated that no matter the position, one has to be a good human being. Prof. Sainath Malligemadu, Principal, mentioned in his Presidential address that there are many compounds in plants, such as the oils released from young mango trees when it is burnt which has value and needs to be explored. The conference therefore would expose such findings. Dr. Chaitanya Pandit delivered the vote of thanks.

In the keynote address, Dr. RP Singh's title was "Pomegranate Seed Oil (PSO), An underutilized treasure!!!". He began by informing that pomegranate seeds are an inadvertent part of the "waste" emanating from the processing industry. However, these seeds contained pomegranate seed oil (PSO) which is rich in punicic acid (a conjugated linolenic acid). By virtue of the presence of punicic acid, PSO possesses a number of health beneficial properties, including antioxidant, anti-inflammatory, hypolipidemic and anticancer properties. The approaches towards the preparation of PSO rich fractions from pomegranate seeds for their possible incorporation in some of the food products was discussed

Technical Sessions

TS-1: The session was chaired by Dr. Shwetha S, Assistant Professor and Head, Department of Biotechnology. Dr. S Thiyagarajan, IBAB, Bengaluru spoke on "Phytochemical Antivirals: In Silico drug screening studies against SARS-CoV-2, Dengue and FMDV". He began with mentioning that exploring ancient literatures and tribal medicinal practices have yielded therapeutic possibilities against various diseases for which no approved drug exists. However, molecular mechanisms behind the therapeutic potential of most of these phytochemical compounds remained unknown. Combining the indigenous treatment protocols using herbal medicines and the phytochemical databases proved to be a good strategy to identify new drug-like compounds using computer aided drug discovery techniques wherein in his lab, they downloaded and curated more than 50,000 phytochemical structures for virtual screening and docking studies using popular open source or commercial tools against potential drug targets of i) SARS-CoV-2, ii) DenV, and iii) FMDV. This perfect blend of ancient knowledge of traditional medicines and modern computer aided drug discovery methods proved fruitful in combatting infectious diseases as well as metabolic disorders. The talk highlighted the compilation of phytochemical databases and the identification and validation of top hit molecules against a few diseases.

TS-2: The session was chaired by Dr. Sachin Chudhari, Senior Scientist, CFTRI, Mysuru. Prof. Subbarao V Madhunapantala spoke on "Targeting oxidative stress signaling cascades using phytochemicals for the prevention and treatment of cancers: Recent updates."

Bharathi JV
PRINCIPAL

Oxidative Stress (OS) is one of the key contributors for the transformation of normal cells into malignant ones. His recent findings with his research group raised concerns pertaining to the use of antioxidants for mitigating OS in cancer cells when they observed activation of Nrf2 by plant secondary metabolites, in particular, the derivatives of benzoic acid and cinnamic acids. For mitigating tumor growth, Nrf2 has to be inactivated. He explained the role of Nrf2 in cancers and the safety and efficacy of plant-derived molecules in mitigating the tumor burden.

TS-3: The session was chaired by Smt. Rajarajeshwari R, Assistant Professor, Department of Microbiology. Dr. Mamatha A delivered the talk on “Modern scientific approaches to traditional medicine for better leads in health care: A Way forward”. She emphasized on the potential of traditional medicine in healthcare and the need to integrate modern scientific approaches to unlock its benefits to bridge the gap between traditional and modern evidence-based medicine, offering numerous possibilities to enhance and advance traditional medicines. She further discussed the modernization of traditional practices, including the development of modern dosage forms, technological advancements, and the application of omics technologies, pharmacogenomics, systems biology and network pharmacology.

TS-4: The session was chaired by Smt Atiya Sameen MP, Assistant Professor and Head, Department of Microbiology. Dr. Ashwini Godbole talked on the topic “Ayurveda Biology of Nervous System Health and Disease”. She informed the disadvantage of using certain modern drugs for enhancing cognition were the side effects. Although Ayurveda has concepts and elaborate descriptions of cognition and other functions of the nervous system (Susruta Sutrasthana 2/3, Charaka Samhita VS 8/8), and suggests many practices and Medhya-dravyas or Medhyarasayana (herbs, foods and formulations) for enhanced cognition, sensory and mechanical abilities, it is not backed with scientific evidence. She presented the data collected and analyzed after conducting community based clinical research in the field of Ayurveda guided memory enhancement with other scientists and doctors. The results from the study were positive and could provide lead to research and development of sustainable and socially relevant solutions for healthy ageing and enhanced cognitive health.

TS-5: The session was chaired by Smt Atiya Sameen MP. Dr. Saptadipa Paul spoke on “Exploring the potential of Pheophorbide A, a chlorophyll- derived compound in modulating GLUT for maintaining glucose homeostasis”. She introduced Pheophorbide A, as a chlorophyll breakdown product which is primarily investigated for its anti-oxidant and anti-inflammatory activity. Following reports of its use for diabetes management, she explained the use of in-silico and in vitro investigations to explore the effect of pheophorbide A on class I GLUTs. Molecular docking studies revealed better binding affinity of pheophorbide A with GLUT4 and GLUT1 when compared with metformin and confirmed the stability of the complex i.e., pheophorbide A-GLUT1 using GROMACS for 100 ns. Live cell imaging showed that pheophorbide A modulated GLUT1 trafficking. The results showed that pheophorbide A may regulate GLUT1 and might be regarded as a potential lead for boosting the GSIS pathway thus maintaining glucose homeostasis.

Oral Presentations: There were eight oral presentations, which was conducted on 14.03.2024. Dr. Vijayaraj P, CFTRI, Mysuru and Dr. JR Kumar, JSSAHER, Mysuru were the judged. Ms. Harshitha, JSSAHER won the first prize while Dr. Chaitramallu, MMK and SDM MMV, won the second prize. Cultural Night: As a recreational activity, students of I, II

15.03.2024

TS-6: Smt Rajarajeshwari R chaired the session. Dr. Girish Chandrana, Course Coordinator, DOS in Biochemistry, PBMMEC, Mysuru spoke on “Thinking beyond the antioxidant properties of phytochemicals: Neuroprotection by biflavonoids through specific biochemical and behavioral targets”. Specific therapeutic roles of novel bioflavonoids beyond their antioxidant activity in vivo in mice and Drosophila models were discussed. Evidences for neuroprotective and neuroameliorative efficacy of amentoflavone (a natural biflavonoid) was presented wherein the behavioural data was correlated with the biochemical indices among Drosophila and mice. The scope of the study was to decipher the specific mechanism by which enzymes or receptors related to a disease/disorder function and to identify therapeutic molecules which specifically target those proteins/molecules in turn resulting in the phenotypic relief in the disease/disorders.

TS-7: Dr. Shwetha S chaired the session. Dr. Asha Martin, Principal Scientist, CSIR-CFTRI, Mysuru spoke on “Phytochemicals as potential inhibitors of PCSK9 for the treatment of dyslipidemia”. She explained that Pro-protein convertase Subtilisin/Kexin type 9 (PCSK9) is an enzyme implicated in post-transcriptional regulation of low density lipoprotein cholesterol level, a risk factor for cardiovascular disease, making it a promising target. Although monoclonal antibody and siRNA based PCSK9 inhibitors have been recently approved for the management of hypercholesterolemia, the most common form of dyslipidemia, affordability is a major concern limiting their applicability. Further, their efficacy and long term safety are not fully understood. In this context, phytochemicals that can modulate PCSK9 had the potential to be developed as safe and cost effective nutraceuticals. The talk further outlined the current knowledge on PCSK9 inhibitors highlighting recent findings on the role of phytochemicals in the management of dyslipidemia.

TS-8: Dr. Sachin Choudhari chaired the session. Dr. Dharmendra Khatri, Assistant Professor, Department of Pharmacology, NMIMS Deemed-to-University, Mumbai spoke on “The versatility of phytochemicals in the modulation of molecular & cellular signaling pathways to combat Parkinson’s disease.” He mentioned that omics-based techniques (Genomes, transcriptomics, proteomics, metabolomics, and bioinformatics) are now acknowledged as powerful tools for developing novel tactics to identify targets for natural products. Delving into his topic he explained that  $\alpha$ -synuclein aggregation is the only well explored and is considered to be the hallmark of Parkinson’s Disease. The neuroprotective effect of Baicalein and Dimethyl fumarate (DMF) was assessed in Rotenone and MPP+ ICV injection in mice. Baicalein promoted the chances of autophagy by enabling better movement of the autophagosomes towards the lysosomes and their active recycling for appropriate turnover. DMF conferred neuroprotection by activating the BNIP3/PINK1/Parkin pathway, enhancing the autophagosome formation via LC3 and improved mitophagy in PD models. He concluded that it could be a potential therapeutic option in PD.

TS-9: The session was chaired by Dr. Arunakumar GS, CSRTI, Mysuru. Prof. Upendra Nongthoma, IISC, Bengaluru talked on “Identification of Plant and plant derivatives for the treatment of Diseases”. Scientific reasons for treatment of epilepsies by AYUSH medications was explored wherein they discovered that Urolithin-A, a small phenolic metabolite, present in many fruits naturally and as a by-product of Ellagic acid in guts, can ameliorate epilepsy conditions in Drosophila and chemical induced kindling mice model. They also discovered the roles of Shankjeera in curing gut defects using Drosophila model.

TS-10: The session was chaired by Dr. Arunakumar GS, CSRTI, Mysuru. Dr. Shalini TV spoke on "Introduction to applications of phytochemistry in understanding of a few Ayurveda basic principles". She deliberated on applying basic ayurveda principles as essential in phytochemical research to better understanding the benefits of phytochemicals in health and therapy. These basic principles include importance of properties of herbs, mode of preparation, different dosage forms, time of collection of herbs, dominance of basic elements, based on the primary taste in the herbs etc. Incompatible food combinations (Viruddhahara), is one of the unique concepts explained in Ayurveda which can provide information on the root cause for most of the modern day ailments.

TS-11: Dr. Mahadesh Prasad AJ, Professor, DOS in Biochemistry, PBMMEC, Mysuru chaired the session. Prof. Bibha Chaudhari, Professor, IBAB, Bengaluru spoke on "Deciphering mechanisms of cytotoxicity induced by Curcumin in Breast and Ovarian cancer cell lines using Pharmaco-transcriptomics". Curcumin, as a potential anticancer agent, has pleiotropic roles due to its diverse target pathways. Her research team performed RNA-seq and identified key miRNAs and mRNAs induced by curcumin in breast cancer cells MCF7, T47D (hormone positive), versus MDA-MB231 (hormone negative) and ovarian cancer cell lines PA-1 (teratocarcinoma) vs A2780 (adenocarcinoma) using comparative analysis of global gene expression profiles. The integrative analysis led to the detection of miRNAs and mRNAs pairs, which can be used as biomarkers associated with carcinogenesis, diagnostic, and treatment response in breast and ovarian cancer. Distinct miRNA regulatory networks were activated to induce multiple modes of cellular cytotoxicity in breast and ovarian cancer cells. The molecular mechanism of curcumin action in ovarian cancers was highlighted and established its candidacy as a promising drug.

Poster Presentations: On the 15th of March 2024, 30 posters were presented, 15 in the students' category and 15 in the faculties/scholars category. Dr. Manjunath, JSSACS, Mysore and Ms. Durgashree AJ, MMK and SDM MMV, Mysuru judged the students poster presentation while Prof. Mahadehs Prasad AJ, PBMMEC, Mysuru and Dr. Kumar, MSCW, Mysuru were the judges for the poster presentation by the faculties/scholars.

In the students' category, and team, IBAB, Bengaluru won the first place, while Yash and team, IBAB won the second place. In the faculties/scholars category Dr. Febina, IBAB won the first prize, Maharani's College, Mysuru won the second prize while, JSSAHER won the third prize.

Panel Discussion: Panel experts, Prof SR Ramesh, CEO of Mahajana Education Society; Prof. Bibha Choudhari, Prof. Upendra Nongthomba, Dr. Shalini TV, Dr. Mamatha, Dr. Saptadipa Paul, Prof. Mahadsh Prasad AJ answered and discussed questions related to oxidative stress in cancer, inflammation in cancer, status of diagnosis and early detection of neurodegenerative disorders and fast food health hazards from the audience. Prof. Nongthomba concluded by admonishing the students to strive hard to achieve something of value and not settle for mediocrity in life.

Valedictory Function: Dr. Chaitanya Pandit welcomed the gathering to the valedictory function. Prof SR Ramesh was the Chief Guest while Prof. Nongthomba the Guest of Honor.

PRINCIPAL

Dr. Bibha Choudhari delivered the valedictory address and thanked the Principal and staff for a good experience. Prof Ramesh, in his Chief Guest address, encouraged the students to continue the journey of getting more knowledge through such platforms while Prof. Nongthomba, in his Guest of Honour address, told the participants to work hard and be focused in their work. The award ceremony followed, wherein winners were announced and awarded. The conference concluded with a vote of thanks by Dr. Wethroe Kapfo, a photo session and certificate distribution.

The E- Proceedings of the Conference and in paperback form was published with ISBN Number. Ms. Kshama, I BSc BMBT and Ms. Priyanka S, II BSc. BMBT were the student editors.

Program Outcome:

1. The conference was a forum of students, research scholars and faculties who exchanged knowledge and ideas in the field of Phytochemistry.
2. The students had an opportunity to present posters in front of scientists to develop their presentation skills.
3. There was networking between scholars created.
4. E- Proceedings and Proceedings of the National Conference were published with ISBN Number: 978-93-340-3317-5 (PB) and ISBN Number : 978-93-340-3749-4 (EB) which contained the abstracts of the speakers and presenters for poster and oral presentation.
5. Participants appreciated that they were able to attend all sessions and also the oral and poster presentations as they were not conducted as parallel sessions.

Respected ma'am
Greetings to you.

I take this opportunity to follow up on our previous interactions by requesting you to accept my invitation to collaborate with our department of Biochemistry as Co-Convenor from IBAB, Bengaluru for the upcoming National Conference on "Biochemistry- Emerging Science and Technology" with the theme "Current Phytochemical Research and Applications" to be held on 14-15.03.2023. We will proceed with the preparations and seek your guidance and inputs for the betterment of the program, including accommodating resource persons recommended by your good self, inviting sponsorships and application for funds. I thank you for your generous time and support.

I am grateful to Prof. HS Subramanyam, Director of IBAB for granting the permission to collaborate and recommending your good self.

I look forward to your valuable response.

wishing you a blessed time

With best regards

Wethroe

Respected ma'am

Greetings to you.

I trust this email finds you well.

MMK and SDM Mahila Mahavidyalaya, Mysore, under the benevolent leadership of Padma vibhushan awardee, Poojya Dr. D Veerendra Heggade, President of SDM education Society, strives to provide wholesome education to uplift women education and empowerment. The college conducts various curricular, co curricular and extracurricular activities to fulfill the vision statement

"Empowerment of Women to face the global challenges". In line with this, the Department of Biochemistry is organising a National Conference on 14 and 15th March, 2024 in association with the esteemed institution, IBAB, Bengaluru. The National Conference on "Biochemistry- Emerging Science and Technology" is themed on "Present Phytochemical Research and Applications".

As this event aims to deliver the latest developments in phytochemistry to the target audience of students, research scholars and faculties, I on behalf of the organising committee take the privilege to invite you as one of our eminent resource persons for the event. Your expertise will benefit the purpose and fulfill the objectives of the conference. I request you to kindly acknowledge the request and accept the invitation.

Wishing you a great weekend ahead.

Dear Dr. Wethroe

Many thanks for your mail, inviting me to be a member of the organizing committee of National Conference on "Biochemistry- Emerging Science and Technology". It's my pleasure to get associated and provide relevant input in making this event successful.

Since we are left with approx. 60 days, it would be very useful if you can convene a meeting as early as possible to prepare a timeline and structure the sessions with suitable lead lectures (plenary talk) and other details.

With Best Regards

Respected sir

Greetings to you.

I trust this email finds you well.

MMK and SDM Mahila Mahavidyalaya, Mysore, under the benevolent leadership of Padma vibhushan awardee, Poojya Dr. D Veerendra Heggade, President of SDM education Society, strives to provide wholesome education to uplift women education and empowerment. The college conducts various curricular, co-curricular and extracurricular activities to fulfil the vision statement "Empowerment of Women to face the global challenges". In line with this, the Department of Biochemistry is organising a National Conference on 14 and 15th March, 2024 in association with the esteemed institution, IBAB, Bengaluru. The National Conference on "Biochemistry- Emerging Science and Technology" is themed on "Present Phytochemical Research and Applications". As this event aims to deliver the latest developments in phytochemistry to the target audience of students, research scholars and faculties, I on behalf of the organising committee take the privilege to invite you as one of our eminent resource persons for the event. Your expertise will benefit the purpose and fulfill the objectives of the conference. I request you to kindly acknowledge the request and accept the invitation.

Wishing you a great weekend ahead.

With Best Regards

Dar Ma'am

Thank you very much for your mail and invitation.

As discussed I would like to deliver my talk on 15 March 2024.

Since there is no direct flight from Mumbai to Mysore, I will have to come 1-day advance and will leave on 15 March late evening for Mumbai from Mysore.

Dear Mam,

Warm greetings to you.

Thank you very much for your kind invitation to serve as an eminent chairperson for two technical sessions during the National Conference on "Biochemistry- Emerging Science and Technology" organized by the Department of Biochemistry at MMK and SDM Mahila Mahavidyalaya, Mysore, in association with IBAB, Bengaluru.

I am delighted to accept your invitation. It is indeed a privilege to contribute to such an event aimed at disseminating the latest developments in phytochemical research and its transdisciplinary applications that's align my own research interest.

Please consider this email as my official acceptance of the invitation to serve as chairman for the mentioned sessions. I am eagerly looking forward to participating and contributing to the success of the conference.

Once again, thank you for considering me for this important role. Please do not hesitate to reach out if there are any further details or preparations required from my end.

Wishing you and the organizing committee continued success in all your endeavors.
